

Trip to the East Anglia Transport Museum at Carlton Colville, near to Lowestoft on Thursday 20th September 2012

From Ron Gee, 24, Elm Road, Sidcup. DA 14 6AD

Dear Members.

You are invited on Thursday September 20th 2012 to join a trip to the East Anglia Transport Museum at Carlton Colville (CC), near to Lowestoft. The Museum, its trolleybuses, trams, omnibuses and other historic vehicles are best described in the Scanned leaflet forming part of this message. So if again you would like to travel on the vehicles that took you to school and later to university, you are most welcome to join us on the trip.

Further details on the museum can be found on the REMS website:

<http://www.johnabelling.webspace.virginmedia.com/>, click on 'Museum Information Brochure' in the 'Miscellaneous' column of the table entry on the 'Events: to book' page.

When and Where to meet:

Liverpool Street Station (for rail travellers): exact time and place will be communicated nearer to the day of the visit.

Travel:

Outward by rail from Liverpool Street Station

Depart Liverpool Street at 10:00, arrive Lowestoft 12:44 (one change, at Ipswich), thence by bus or perhaps shared taxis to the Museum, where lunch can be taken.

Return to Liverpool Street Station

We will leave the museum to catch the 16:40 bus (outside the museum) to enable the party to get back to Lowestoft in good time and to have a cup of tea before the return train journey, which departs Lowestoft at 17:50, arriving Liverpool Street Station at 20:55.

Rail fares

A perusal of website www.greateranglia.co.uk indicates that the cheapest way to travel is to purchase single tickets at £5.30 each way (with senior railcard – amazingly cheap!). But as first class is only £8.60 each way (with railcard), the suggestion is that we travel first class so that we might more easily get seats together. It is recommended that members purchase tickets early to take advantage of the cheap fares, before they sell out. Tickets bought on the day are likely to be more expensive, but Greater Anglia is offering a GroupSave deal: "When two adults buy an Off-Peak or Super Off-Peak ticket, one or two more people travel free. There's also no need to book ahead - just turn up, ask for GroupSave and go".

Naturally IOP cannot accept responsibility if the above suggested trains run late or not at all.

By car

The museum lies south of Lowestoft and is signposted from the A12 road.
The postcode is NR33 8BL.

Cost: £8 to include entrance fee, lunch and travel not included.
