LEGAL LONDON and NATIONAL GALLERY
Thursday 24 November 2016

This visit has been organised by George Freeman with advice from Martin Olutniks and Joanne Lee.

In the morning we will walk around, and be told about, the Inns of Court and some Courts of Justice. In the afternoon we will be at the National Gallery again.

In the morning Joanne Lee, a lawyer and Blue Badge Guide, will take us on a walk around the Inns of Court and some of the Courts of Justice and tell us of their history and practices. If the Temple Church is open we will visit that as well.

After lunch At the National Gallery Martin Olutniks will continue to discuss his selection of paintings.

MEET in the “Pret a Manger” at 217 Strand, directly opposite the Royal Courts of Justice from 10:30. The nearest underground station is Temple. Blackfriars, Charring Cross and Waterloo stations are within walking distance.

LUNCH will be in the “Magpie and Stump” opposite the Old Bailey. I have booked tables for us on the first floor. They have 4 cask ales as well as the usual drinks. For speed we will pre-order.

AFTER lunch we travel by pre-paid taxi to Trafalgar Square.

10.30 – 11:00	Assemble at Pret a Mange. Refreshments and toilets
11.00 – 13.00	Talk and tour of Legal London
13.00 – 14.00	Lunch
14.00 – 14.15	Taxi
14.30 – onwards	Talk and tour of more of NG’s paintings

TEA can be taken in the cafe at the National Gallery.

Martin and Joanne will both be with us all day.
