The Battle of Britain Bunker at Uxbridge

Tue, 19 March 2019, 10:30

We shall visit the deep underground bunker from which the Battle of Britain was conducted and learn about our national air defence system at that time and the role played by radar. It was here that Churchill spoke of how much was owed by so many to so few. The site has been extensively renovated in the recent past and looks very different from the time of our last visit.

This event has been organised by Stewart Coulter for REMS. Stewart is a near Neighbour of the site and a volunteer guide.

For information on the visit, registration and payment e-mail Tony Colclough at tonycolclough@outlook.com

Cost £20
