

This visit has been organised by George Freeman.

Cardinal Wolsey started building his palace about 1612 but Henry VIII confiscated it in 1620. He carried on building including his Great Hall with its magnificent hammer-beam roof. Most centuries have seen more building, two notable architects being William Kent (George II) and Wren (William and Mary). Kent rebuilt some of the famous west front and parts of the inside. Wren built the Fountain Court and the south and east wings. Inside there are pictures and furniture from these periods and in some rooms there are costume guides who explain the history.

HRP (Historic Royal Palaces) runs roof-top tours over of Wren's part of the palace. Access is via a long steep stone staircase with iron banisters (probably made by Tijou as he was Wren's master blacksmith). On the roof there are steel walkways over the leads. The views of the old roofs, S & E gardens and park are unrivalled.

The size of a group is a maximum of 15. As the tour is very expensive we must restrict our group to 15 or 30. The first tour is before lunch and a possible second one after lunch. The cost includes entry and re-entry to the palace and gardens, and the tour. This is a loss-making visit for REMS even at 15 or 30 people.

SAFETY Please do not come with us if you have difficulty climbing stairs or suffer with vertigo. Please wear sensible flat shoes and, if sunny, a sun hat as it gets hot up there. If the weather is bad we will have a 1½ hour guided tour of the palace. Umbrellas and canes are not allowed on the roof and everyone must sign an indemnity form. Please read the conditions on page 3.
